

Authorship Declaration Form

Authorship should be limited to those who have contributed substantially to the work. The corresponding author must have obtained permission from all authors for the submission of the manuscript and for any change in authorship. The corresponding author is the formal guarantor of the manuscript – they are the individual accountable for the integrity of the content, including data and results if applicable, reported in the paper. The corresponding author is responsible for replying to e-mails associated with the review of their manuscript. All authors share part of the responsibility for any manuscript they coauthor, and as such, must ensure (to the best of their knowledge) that the paper is an accurate, verifiable report of the research. While all coauthors may not be experts in all aspects of the research presented in their paper, they should have in place an appropriate process for reviewing the accuracy of the reported results. Any authorship disputes must be brought to the attention of the Editor-in-Chief or Scientific Director, who can then help mediate the conflict, if necessary, and propose an appropriate solution.

Conditions for Authorship

The author list should contain only those who carried out ALL of the following activities:

- 1) Made a substantial contribution to the conceptualization or design of the manuscript, or to data acquisition, analysis, or interpretation;
- 2) Drafted the manuscript or revised it critically for important intellectual content;
- 3) Validated and approved the final version of the manuscript to be published;
- 4) Approved the author order of the manuscript;
- 5) Agreed to be accountable for all aspects of the work's accuracy and integrity.

Those contributors who do not meet the above criteria for authorship should instead be listed in the "Acknowledgements" section.

Author Order (for multi-author manuscripts)

Determining author order in collaborative manuscripts varies widely by discipline and field of research (e.g., by level of contribution, senior contributor last, alphabetical order). The CJB/RCB does not impose one approach to author ordering but does require 1) that authors confirm that they have discussed the issue in their team and agreed upon the order (e.g., regarding the ordering approach, mechanisms for dispute resolution), and 2) explain concisely how author order of was decided.

Description of Author Contributions and Order (for multi-author manuscripts)

Please provide 1) a detailed explanation outlining each author’s contribution, and 2) a concise description of the approach used to determine author order.

1) Contributions

2) Ordering approach

Author Declarations

All of the authors listed below confirm that they meet the journal’s authorship criteria, and that they have agreed to the author order of the submitted manuscript.
